SENATOR STONE PRESENTS DEMOCRATIC DECLARATION OF FAITH AFTER LONG COMMITTEE SESSION.

LAUDS WILSON REGIME

Praises of Democratic Administration Are Sung in Unstinted Terms—Americanism, Peace and Preparedness Urged.

BULLETIN.

St. Louis, June 16.—The minority report of the platform committee in regard to women's suffrage, which favored a continuance of the provision of the federal constitution relating to the state's power to prescribe the qualifications for electors, was defeated. This is taken as a victory for the suffrage cause. The adoption of the platform as a whole was expected late this afternoon.

Coliseum, St. Louis, June 16.—"America" was played by the band when Senator Reed concluded his speech and while Senator Stone of the resolutions committee made the platform to present the platform at today's session of the democratic convention. Senator Stone looked haggard and worn from his long vigil. In introducing Senator Stone to present the platform, Chairman James asked for the "hear, the democratic declaration of faith."

Senator Stone was given prolonged applause. Describing the committee labor as "somewhat protracted and arduous," Senator Stone made a brief introductory address.

"I am not going to read," he said, referring to the platform. "I have not been able to sleep a moment in more than thirty hours."

Senator Stone delegated the reading to Senator Walsh of Montana and Senator Hollis of Montana. Senator Walsh took the speaker's stand first and began reading at 12:38 o'clock.

Applause and whistling followed its reading. The woman suffrage plank got more of the attention of the men than it did from the women.

The peace plank was moderately applauded, so was that upon prison reforms.

Chairman Stone moved the adoption of the platform as read.

There was some cries of "Vote it down." There were other cries of "Shut up."

Mr. Lomasney, Massachusetts delegate, objected to the adoption. After a wrangle, Senator Stone yielded to Lomasney ten minutes of his time.

It turned out that Lomasney wanted to put in a plank to express sympathy of the convention with "the people of Ireland."

"Route him," roared a land delegate.

The convention roared with laughter.

Following is a copy of the democratic platform as submitted to the full committee:

The democratic party in national convention assembled adopted the following declaration to the people of the United States: We are proud of the achievement wrought by four years of democratic administration and we are appraised of the policies to which the party has committed for the further conduct of national affairs.

We endorse the administration of Woodrow Wilson. It speaks for itself. It is the best exposition of sound democratic policy at home and abroad.

We challenge comparison of record, our keeping of pledges, and our constructive legislation, with those of any party of our time.

We found the country hampered by special privilege. A vicious tariff, an obsolete banking law, an inelastic currency. Our foreign affairs were dominated by commercial interests for their selfish ends. The republican party of the past repeated pledges, was impotent to correct abuses which it had fostered.

Under our administration, under a leadership which has never faltered, these abuses have been corrected and our people have been freed therefrom.

Reform Banking System. Our archaic banking and currency system, prone to panic and disaster, under republican administration long the refuge of the money trust, has been supplanted by the federal reserve act, a true democracy of credit under government control, already proved a bulwark in a world crisis, mobilizing our resources, placing abundance of credit at the disposal of legitimate industry, and making a currency panic impossible.

We have created a federal trade commission to accommodate the perplexing questions arising under antitrust law, so monopoly may be strangled at its birth and legitimate industry encouraged. Fair competition in business is now assured. We have effected an adjustment of the tariff, adequate for revenue under peace conditions and fair to consumer and producer. We have adjusted the burden of taxation, so that swollen incomes bear their equitable share. Our revenues have been sufficient in times of world stresses and will largely exceed expenditures for current fiscal year.

We have lifted human labor from the category of commodities, and have secured to the working man the right of voluntary association for his protection and welfare.

Uphold Laborers' Rights. We have protected the rights of the laborer against the unwarranted issuance of the writ of injunction and have guaranteed to him the right of trial by jury in all cases of alleged contempt committed outside the presence of the court.

We have advanced the parcels post to genuine efficiency, enlarged the postal savings system, and added ten thousand rural delivery routes and extensions, thus reaching 2,500,000 additional people; improved the postal service in every branch, and for the first time in our history placed the postal office system on a self-supporting basis, with an actual surplus in 1913, '14, and '15.

The reforms which were most objectionable to clear away privilege, prevent unfair discrimination, and release energies of men of all ranks and advantages, have been effected by recent legislation. We must now remove as far as possible every remaining element of unrest and uncertainty from the path of the businessmen of America, and secure for them a continued period of quiet, assured and confident prosperity.

SNAPSHOTS OF DEMOCRATS ATTENDING NATIONAL CONVENTION AT ST. LOUIS

These pictures were taken in St. Louis on the eve of the Democratic national convention in that city. Tom Taggart is a senator from Indiana and one of the most powerful figures in Hoosier Democratic circles. Elliott W. Major is governor of Missouri and an active candidate for vice president. Homer S. Cummings hails from Connecticut. He is an important figure on the Democratic national committee and may be chosen to succeed William F. McCombs as the committee's chairman.

Favor Tariff Commission. We reaffirm our belief in doctrine of tariff for the purpose of providing sufficient revenue for the operation of the government, economically administered, and unreservedly endorse the Underwood tariff law as truly exemplifying that doctrine. We recognize that tariff rates are necessarily subject to change to meet changing conditions in the world of production and trade. The events of the last two years have brought about many momentous changes more varied and far-reaching than the world has ever before experienced.

In fact, are yet conjectural and wait to be disclosed, particularly in regard to our foreign trade. Two years of our government's policy have brought about most of the chief industrial nations of the world and which had indirectly affected the life and industry of all nations, are bringing about economic changes varied and far-reaching than the world has before experienced.

In order to ascertain just what these changes may be, the democratic congress is proposing a non-partisan tariff commission to make impartial and thorough study of every economic fact, and may throw light either upon our past or upon our future fiscal policy with regard to tariff making.

Our country is in a position where our trade is carried on under which our people are in sympathy and purpose of the policy of the government in its foreign relations with clearly established facts, rather than in accordance with demands of selfish interests or upon information provided largely, if not exclusively, by them.

Hits at Hyphenates. In an appeal for Americanism the platform says:

"In this day of test, America must show itself, not a nation of partisans, but a nation of patriots. There are among our people, the best of the blood, the industry and the genius of the whole world, the elements of a great race and a magnificent society to be made into a mighty and splendid nation."

"Whoever, actuated by the purpose to promote the interest of a foreign power in this disregard of our own country's welfare, or to injure the interests of our people, or to obstruct or cripple or destroy its industries at home, and whoever by arousing prejudices of racial, religious or other nature, creates dissension and discord among our people, so as to obstruct the wholesome process of unification, is faithless to the trust which the privileges of citizenship impose on him, and disloyal to his country."

"We therefore condemn as subversive of this nation's unity and integrity, and as destructive of its welfare, the activities and designs of every group or organization, political or otherwise, that has for its object the promotion of the interests of a foreign power whether such object is promoted by intimidating the government, a political party or representative of the people, or which is calculated to divide our people into antagonistic groups, and thus to destroy that complete agreement and solidarity of the people, and that unity of sentiment and national purpose so essential to the perpetuity of the nation and its free institution."

"We condemn all alliances and combinations of individuals in this country, of whatever nationality, for the purpose of embarrassing or weakening our government or of properly influencing or coercing our public representatives in dealing or negotiating with any foreign power. We charge such conspiracies among a limited number exist and have been instigated for the purpose of advancing the interest of foreign countries to the prejudice and detriment of our own country."

"We condemn any political party which in view of the activity of such conspirators, surrenders its integrity or modifies its policy."

Preparedness Issue. The question of preparedness is handled in the platform as follows:

"Along with the proof of our character as a nation must go the proof of our power to play the part that legitimately belongs to us. The people of the United States love peace. They respect rights and cover friendship of all other nations. They desire neither any additional territory or any advantage which their skill in industry or enterprize, but they insist upon having absolute freedom of national life and policy and feel they owe it to themselves and to the role of spirited independence which it is their sole ambition to play, that they should render themselves secure against hazard or interference from any quarters, and should be able to protect their rights upon seas or in any part of the world. We therefore, favor the maintenance of an army fully adequate to the requirement of the protection of the nation's rights, the fullest development of modern methods of sea-coast defense, and maintenance of an adequate reserve of citizens trained to arms and prepared to safely guard the people and territory of the United States against any danger of hostile action which may unexpectedly arise. And a fixed policy for continuous development of a navy, worthy to support the great naval traditions of the United States and fully equal to the international task which the United States hopes and expects to take a part in performing. The plans and the execution of the present congress afford substantial proof of our purpose in this exigent matter."

The Mexican Policy. The platform treats the Mexican situation in the following manner:

"The Monroe Doctrine is reasserted as a principle of democratic faith. That doctrine guarantees independence of the peoples of the Americas against aggression from another continent. It implies as well the most scrupulous regard upon our part of sovereignty of each of them. The want of a stable and responsible government of Mexico, capable of representing and punishing marauders and bandit bands who have not only taken lives and destroyed property of American citizens in that country, but have insolently invaded our soil, made war upon and murdered our people thereon, has rendered it necessary temporarily to occupy by our armed forces a portion of territory of that friendly state. Until by the restoration of law and order therein, a repetition of such incursion is improbable, the necessity for their remaining will continue."

"Intervention, implying as it does military subjugation, is repelling to the people of the United States, and withstanding the provocation to that course has been great and should be resorted to, if at all, only as a last resort. The stubborn resistance of the republic of Mexico to every demand and suggestion to enter upon it, is creditable alike to them and to the people in whose name he speaks."

Persons Missing When Steamer Bear Was Destroyed Off California Coast, Were Later Discovered.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Eureka, California, June 16.—All of the two hundred and ten passengers and crew of the steamer Bear, wrecked on Sugar Loaf Reef near here Wednesday night, have been accounted for according to a statement made today by Purser Haywood. It was said that after careful checking of passenger list he was convinced the five persons drowned and whose bodies had been recovered, were the only ones that perished. One body, that of a young woman, was still unidentified.

RENOMINATE WILSON AMID WILD CHEERS

DEMOCRATS STAGE VIGOROUS DEMONSTRATION AS NOMINATIONS ARE MADE BY ACCLAMATION.

SESSIONS END TODAY

Final Action Taken on Party Platform at Today's Session of Convention—Badger Democrats Prominent.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Louis, June 16.—With a demonstration of uproarious proportions and just as day was closing this morning, the democratic national convention renominated Woodrow Wilson for president and Thomas Riley Marshall for vice-president. Action was taken by acclamation. John W. Westcott, delivering the speech placing the president's name before the delegates for renomination, but a second address, prepared by William F. Wolfe, of La Crosse, was dispensed with and the vote was taken. Seton Kemp, who nominated Marshall, cast aside his set speech and simply declared: "I nominate Thomas Riley Marshall of Indiana for vice-president."

Bryan Makes Speech. W. J. Bryan, who is in attendance at the convention in the capacity of a newspaper correspondent, was called upon for an address. After Senator Thompson's motion to set aside the rules to allow Bryan to talk, had carried by a two-thirds vote.

Senator James introduced Mr. Bryan as one of the leading citizens of the world and America's greatest democrat.

"No president since Jackson," said Mr. Bryan, "has had to meet such an enormous task as this country has at the present time. The powers of high finance and even Jackson himself never met the situation better than Woodrow Wilson met it. We have just commenced to learn what reserve force we possess."

"This great piece of legislation, the greatest piece of constructive statesmanship in a generation, has not only broken the hold of Wall street upon the business of the nation, but it has broken the grip of Wall street upon the policies of the United States."

"For twenty years there has not been an election but what a hundred years of peace could be won by the result of the election. And one who like myself has felt their power must be pardoned if he rejoices that we have an administration that has broken that power and set a nation free."

Chance For Nation. "If I understand this nation's opportunity and this nation's task, it is to lead the world away from its false philosophy and help it to build its hope of peace on the foundation of love and brotherhood and cooperation."

"And, my friends, if this is to be the task of this nation, what party is more fit to perform the task than the party that has been the champion of peace, as next in importance to the fatherhood of God?"

"I, as a lover of my country, want my country to win this greatest of all prizes. As a democrat, I want my party to have the honor that shall come with the accomplishment and fulfillment of such a task, and I stand with the democrats of the nation to give Woodrow Wilson an opportunity to lead this nation."

Badgers Lead Demonstration. Wisconsin figured largely in a demonstration on Thursday, when Senator Ollie James, the 300 pound permanent chairman, from Kentucky, paid Wilson tribute in the following manner: "The most militant spirit that ever brooded over a battlefield—the concession of American demands and American rights."

In a flash the convention let loose a wild cheer, which was echoed through the Coliseum. Little Rhode Island, closely followed by the Wisconsin delegates and their alternates, raised the procession. It was staged as an expression of the real thing in Americanism.

Wisconsin delegates began singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and in a few minutes the convention was doing it. Senator Huston and William F. Wolfe shouted like a couple of wild eyed Indians from Oshkosh.

Late Thursday night, when Wilson was placed in nomination, the cheering performance, only more of it, was staged, and Wisconsin again demonstrated that the fresh air of the Badger state breeds healthy lungs.

TO CONTINUE EARLY EXPRESS SERVICE

Companies Agree to Give Service Before 7:00 a. m. in Janesville Following Complaint.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, June 16.—An informal complaint was recently filed with the railroad commission against the withdrawal of express service before 7:00 a. m. at Janesville. The result of this, according to the complaints, would have been to hurt the business of several bakeries, and at a conference the Milwaukee and American Express companies agreed to restore the service.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company has just submitted to the commission blueprints for sealing devices. These devices are for the sealing of the wiring in a room that has been disconnected.

The case against the Wisconsin railroad commission to test the constitutionality of the Blue Sky law has been postponed until September 23.

F. Ries, traffic manager of the Sheboygan chamber of commerce, has asked the railroad commission to consider the advisability of ordering the construction of a connecting track between the electric and steam roads at Sheboygan.

German Check French Attempts to Drive Them From Positions on Southern Slope of Mount.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, June 16.—Two attacks delivered by the French yesterday and last night on the German line along the southern slope of Dead Man's Hill, were unsuccessful, the war office announced today. In the first attack the French temporarily gained some ground, but a counter attack drove them back.

Break German Attacks. Paris, June 16.—Powerful German attacks made last night on the French positions southeast of Thionville, on the Verdun front, broke down under French machine guns and infantry fire according to today's statement by war office.

Bulgars Transfer Forces. Athens, June 16.—It was reported in Athens today that the Bulgarians were withdrawing the majority of their forces from Saloniki to the Roumanian front.

Austrian Attack Fails. Rome, June 16.—Austro-Hungarian troops estimated to number 18,000 attacked in dense formation the Italian positions on the Asiago plateau yesterday, but were repulsed leaving piles of corpses before the Italian trenches, says an official statement today.

Slave Capture 14,000. Petrograd, June 16.—The capture of an additional 10,000 officers and 14,000 men was announced today by the war office. The Russian successes in the offensive along the southern front are continuing, the statement says.

COUNTRY STUDENTS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Ninety-Two Graduate at High School Building This Afternoon—Bradford Boy Wins Spelling Contest.

Over three hundred relatives and friends of the high school this afternoon attended the commencement exercises. Expectations were that almost this many more would be present but it was figured that the bad rains of the morning afternoon kept down attendance considerably.

Harold Fox of District No. 5, town of Bradford, this afternoon was named as the representative of Rock county to the Wisconsin spelling contest held annually at the state fair at Milwaukee.

In the examination in writing, spelling and arithmetic this morning Harold secured an average of eighty-four and one-third among the representatives of seventeen of the twenty townships of the county, thirty contestants taking the tests. Miss Sarah Morum Porter, with an average of but one point below that of the Bradford boy, was awarded second place. Six more writers were within a range of three or four points of the winner.

With the award of first place goes the Peary Memorial flag for the keeping, throughout the coming year, by the school from which the winner came.

A musical program interspersed the addresses this afternoon. The speakers were W. J. Dougan, Beloit, Supt. of Schools, and Supt. O. D. Antisdel, who also presented the diplomas. There were ninety-two boys and girls in the graduation class.

IN BOX CAR AS STRING ROLLS DOWN INCLINE

Janesville Railroad Brakeman Escapes With Slight Injuries Near South Wayne Yesterday.

Something happened yesterday afternoon to a Mineral Point division train of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway between South Wayne and Gratiot and seven of seven cars of the train left the tracks and rolled down a deep embankment. James Sollinger, North Pearl street, a brakeman was in one of the cars which tipped, and today is confined to his home with a badly bruised, lacerated and swollen right limb, which might or might not be broken, the results being undetermined by railroad surgeons because of the swollen nature.

The accident occurred five miles west of South Wayne. Sollinger had climbed in the car at this point to have South Wayne freight ready at the door when this station was reached. At the smaller stations along the line where the freight is light, brakemen are obliged to help load and unload all shipments.

The accident is thought to have been the result of a brakebeam breaking and dropping. The first ten cars of the train remained on the rails, as did the last freight car and the caboose. The other seven were wrecked, some rolling down the embankment, breaking the fence and only stopping when clear of the right of way. Luckily the car in which Sollinger was working only turned over on its side.

A large piece of steel from a grain binder flew against him, pinning his limbs to the side of the car. Many of the cars and their contents were damaged beyond salvage, one car of groceries, when it stopped, being a big scramble of tea and coffee, sugar and spices, etc.

Conductor Sid Northrup was in charge of the train with Brakeman Sollinger, James McGuire and Ricker. On the locomotive were Tom Harker and Fireman Jack Price.

ROOSEVELT EXPECTS A SPEEDY RECOVERY

Condition Somewhat Improved Today Although Colonel Still Suffers Pain.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 16.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was still in pain today as result of the breaking of tendons of his left ribs through violent coughing, but declared he was not serious and he expected to be all right in a few days. Dr. Arthur B. Duell declared that the Colonel's illness was not serious and predicted his quick recovery.

ADAMS IS BOOMED FOR STATE OFFICE

Mayor of Beloit Being Put Forward as Progressive Candidate for Governor.

Beloit, June 16.—A boom to make Harry W. Adams, mayor of Beloit, the next progressive candidate for governor of Wisconsin, and to run Judge C. D. Rosa, former assemblyman from the district, for that office, was started last night at a conference of progressives of the second assembly district of Rock county.

The meeting was called to elect delegates to Madison conference of progressives and to vote support on any harmony program that may be formulated there.

Mayor Adams' principal public service was the winning of the famous utilities rate case in 1909, in which he obtained lower rates for gas, water and electricity.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Vett of Milwaukee, who have been here attending the alumni gathering of the school for the blind were entertained by their niece, Mrs. V. W. Schuller of Pleasant Street.

MORE TROOPS AND AEROPLANES ON WAY TO AID GEN. PERSHING

The forces of General Pershing in Mexico are being constantly augmented and strengthened in every way. Eight Curtiss biplanes of the R-2 type, 160 horsepower, have just joined the punitive expedition. Four more will be ordered and as soon as they arrive they will replace the less powerful machines now in use. The lower photograph illustrates a novel means of transporting troops to the border. The car loaded with fighting men is an auto truck mounted on wheels specially adapted for running on railway tracks.

ROCK COUNTY BOOSTS FOR M. G. JEFFRIS

GREAT DELEGATION AT MADISON THIS AFTERNOON TO HEAR SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN OPENING ADDRESS TONIGHT.

MANY FROM JANESVILLE

Over Hundred Backers of Local Man Leave This Afternoon—Special Trains and Bands Are Features.

Three hundred Rock county boosters for Malcolm G. Jeffris, republican candidate for United States senator, went to Madison this afternoon to bear the candidate deliver his opening address in the Wisconsin senatorial campaign at the university gymnasium tonight. Over a hundred and fifty went from Janesville and the remainder will leave the train at Evansville. A special will also be run over the Milwaukee road from Edgerton and Stoughton and the party will be met at Madison by a band and parade the streets, later marching to the gymnasium where the address is to be delivered. They will return on a special train leaving Madison immediately after the address, stopping at Stoughton, Edgerton and Janesville.

Milwaukee will send out a hundred and fifty members of the Jeffris Republican club and delegations will join the party at Waukesha, La Crosse and intervening points. The meeting this evening is under the auspices of the Dane County Jeffris club and "Club" Buck, famous on the University of Wisconsin football field will preside, being president of the University of Wisconsin Jeffris club. A complimentary dinner will be tendered Mr. Jeffris at the Park hotel at 6:30, at which covers will be laid for fifty.

Those who have had the privilege of reading Mr. Jeffris' speech in advance of delivery, announce that it is one of his characteristic talks, full of fire and ginger and bound to start the senatorial ball rolling in truth. During the next few weeks the Jeffris campaign will be pushed with a will. A general tour of the state is being arranged for. Meanwhile Jeffris Republican clubs are being organized in every county in the state.

HON. M. G. JEFFRIS.

JANESVILLE GIRLS ARE HONORED AT MILTON

Miss Beattie Buell won the sophomore scholarship, which means the highest class average for the school year. The freshman scholarship was won by Miss Pearl Gardner. Miss Beattie Knuth received an honorable mention, which is the second in rank. These young people from Janesville, who received the highest honors, certainly reflect great credit upon the local high school, of which they are graduates, and which ranks among the best in the state.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED TO HIGH SCHOOL CLASS

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES END AT SCHOOL WITH PRESENTATION OF SHEEPSKINS LAST NIGHT.

STUDENT COMMENDED

Has Attended School Twelve Years Without Single Tardy Mark or Absence From Any Cause.

"Over the Alps lies Italy," are the few words that the graduating class of the Janesville high school took for their motto. The words hung over the class last evening at the Methodist church, where the commencement exercises were held. The platform where the outgoing students sat was tastefully decorated by the junior class. The church was packed with interested people and every available seat in the whole church was taken. The program was very interesting and an attentive audience listened throughout the evening. Henry Ford, not the great peace maker and automobile manufacturer, but one of the school boys, discussed "Some Problems of Science." Ford had led to his science classes, and his talk last night gave proof that he was well acquainted with the subject. Thomas Cronin's address was "The Milk Industry of Today." Cronin told of the old ways used years ago and of the new fields open to the milk producers and dealers of today. The question dealt with by Cronin is one of great importance and was handled very well. Stanley Ryan and George Spohn started the audience with their arguments against and for war. Ryan's address was on the negative side of the question was handled in a creditable manner. George Spohn presented his arguments for war. Both talks given by these young men presented strong arguments for either side, and should have been judged it would have been a hard task to declare a winner. Miss Sybil Richardson and Miss Powers rendered vocal solos that caused much applause from the audience. Miss Richardson's solo came in the early part of the program and Miss Powers' in the latter part. Both girls responded to encores. Miss Louise Bennett was piano accompanist. Rev. L. C. Kellogg delivered the valedictory address in a very creditable manner. She told of the school life the past four years; how one hundred and twenty-five pupils entered the doors of this year when they were freshmen and only sixty-three were able to finish. Miss Kellogg spoke of the immediate need of an addition to the high school building, and should one be built, a greater opportunity would be before the future students of the school.

A girl that was given special mention in an announcement made by Principal T. Shearor was Miss Elizabeth Barrett. Miss Barrett has record of attendance during her school years that could hardly be passed. For twelve years she has not missed a day of school or has she been tardy. This is a remarkable record that could not be passed in the city or even in the state.

Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, president of the board of education, made a presentation speech in behalf of the board and presented the sixty-three graduates with their diplomas. Every student upon receiving his sheepskin was given loud applause by the audience. The class song was given as the last number on the program. It was the work of Miss Thelma Powers and John Koch. The two authors led the singing. Miss Ruth Granger was pianist. The song was written to the tune of many hits and finished on the members of the graduating class.

Rev. Francis H. Brigham, pastor of the Methodist church, delivered the benediction. The board of education appreciated very much the kindness of the members of the Methodist church for the use of the church last evening.

Through an error made in Wednesday's issue it was stated that Doris Summerville of the Lincoln school was presented with second prize in the history contest. It should have been Doris Summerville of the Jefferson school.

INTERURBAN ROUTE SURVEY COMPLETED

Entire Line From Madison to Janesville Has Been Laid Out—Railroad Tracks Avoided.

The surveying party of the Madison-Janesville Interurban line have been in this city looking over the ground for the past week, coming from Edgerton. The line which they have decided on keeps the tracks away from crossings and highways as much as possible. It leaves Madison by way of Fair Oaks on the east side of Lake Monona, and passing through McFarland, crosses the Milwaukee road, thence to Collingwood, and on to a point near Stoutsville, where it turns south and touches the city limits. At Dunkirk it crosses the Chicago road straight to Edgerton. From Edgerton it runs beside the road down the creek valley, and then follows the west bank of Rock river for a quarter of a mile, when it crosses to the Hard farm, and proceeds south to Janesville.

ORFORD MAN SENTENCED TO A NINETY DAY TERM

John Johnson of Orfordville got the limit for his offense of drunkenness when he was given ninety days on his plea of guilty this morning. John was given a choice of a fine of twenty-five dollars or ninety days. "I may say my fine when my rent comes in," returned John and he started to fill his faithful and thick coat and coin.

The court refused to take a chance and sent Johnson down to jail for the term.

W. P. JOHNSON TO SPEAK IN THE CORN EXCHANGE

W. P. Johnson of the Mount Zion colored church at Madison, Wis., will speak at the Corn Exchange at seven-thirty for the next three nights. His subject will be "National Unity," "Advantage of Knowledge and the Disadvantage of Ignorance," and "The Danger of Legal Reform." Everyone is cordially urged to be present.

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR SALOON LICENSES FILED

Forty-one applications have been filed at the city clerk's office for saloon licenses. George Rudersdorf, now a partner with W. C. Smith, made application for the saloon at South Main street, that is now under the license of Siegel and Abbott. C. B. Cushman made an individual application.

WATER DEPARTMENT REPORT IS READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

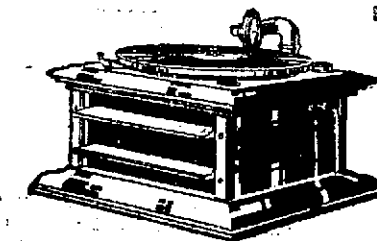

Copies of the last report made by the Janesville water department, can be obtained at the office of the city clerk, at the city hall.

LAKE TRAVEL.

The steamship North Land will start her summer cruises between Chicago and Buffalo with her first sailing at 1:30 P. M. Saturday, June 17th. The sailing schedule of the North Land has been given a slight change this summer. In former years she has sailed in Chicago at 2:00 P. M. Saturday and sailed at 4 o'clock the same afternoon. This year she will reach Chicago at 2:30 P. M. on Friday and lay over until Saturday at 1:30. Her stay in Buffalo has been shortened, arriving there at 8 o'clock on Tuesday mornings and sailing at 9 o'clock of that day.

This year the North Land is again under the command of Captain Minar, the veteran sailorman of the lakes, who has commanded every kind of lake craft from schooner up. Captain Minar was sailing the lakes when there were two lights between Chicago and Milwaukee, and the pathway along the shore was not as he expresses it, "all lit up like Broadway." Captain Minar is known as one of the best fresh water navigators living, and his care and his ship and passengers is proverbial. His steamship is never better shown than when he brings the big North Land to its place along side a dock, gently guiding her into place until she settles to a full stop in exactly the right position and with never a jolt or jar and the slightest flurry of excitement, no matter what the weather.

MANY BOYS EMPLOYED FOR INDUSTRIAL WORK.

London, June 15.—A new boy problem brought about by the war has created a field for male experts in social work in England—that of acting as supervisors for the thousands of boys employed on munitions work throughout the country. The sudden rise in the economic value of the boy and the competition for his services, and the high wages he is paid, have made many of his kind less amenable to discipline than ever.

The Workers' Welfare Department of the Ministry of Munitions which has been studying the boy problem in its new phases finds that the chief complaints are these:
Finding certain of easily finding another job, a boy readily leaves a workshop because of some slight misunderstanding or seeming injustice; and his high wages tend to make him independent of home control, and extravagant and thriftless in spending them.

Believing that the boy needs, aside from the formal factory control, kindly supervision and guidance, it has been decided to appoint supervisors to be paid by the management of each of the 3,000 odd munitions factories. It is proposed that the supervisor shall look after the general working conditions so far as they affect the health and comfort of the boys. Before any boy is dismissed or given discharge the case is to be turned over to the supervisor so that by an interview with the boy, or a visit to his home, he may be able to remove the cause of the trouble.

It is intended also that the supervisor shall be told the wages each boy earns, which will enable him to appreciate the boy's financial position in his home, and devise the best means for encouraging him to save.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 72.

School children, studying the chicken-breeding experiments outlined in the first chapter, will learn now, upon a diet of certain foods, natural resistance to disease is largely increased, whereas, upon a diet of other foods, such resistance is completely destroyed. Through their own observations, they will be forced to the vigorous conviction that man is guilty of an unpardonable sin when, for no other purpose than to make his products commercially profitable, he deliberately removes from the invigorating and immunity-conferring foods the very elements upon which vigor and immunity depend.

Having become familiar with the chicken-breeding experiments, as conducted in the ten cages in the school-house basement or on the school-house roof, the children will learn that it is possible to alter the resistance of animals to the invigorating and immunity-conferring foods by combining it with another.

They will learn the facts concerning the discovery of Hunt that the resistance of animals to certain poisons differs greatly according to the character of their diet.

They will learn that Bulletin 63, Hygienic Laboratory, United States Treasury Department, declares that in extreme cases mice, after having been fed on certain diets, may recover from forty times the dose of acetonitrile fatal to mice fed on other diets.

They will learn that experiments with cats and oatmeal and eggs are of special interest.

They will learn that a diet of oats or oatmeal usually leads to a marked resistance of mice to acetonitrile, and that the administration of certain iodine compounds with such a diet further increases the resistance.

They will learn that the experiments reported by the government show that as far as resistance to acetonitrile is concerned iodine exerts its action through the thyroid gland, as the resistance caused by an oat diet is in an effect exerted upon the thyroid.

The results achieved with iodine in the Rotunda Hospital, Dublin; the thyroid researches of Victor Horsley, and the discovery of thyrotoxicosis by Bauman led T. Alphonsus Wallace to the conclusion that iodine was a very potent factor in the neutralization of the toxic substances elaborated within the human body.

Finding all the pharmaceutical preparations of iodine either powerfully irritant or altogether inactive, Wallace departed from the beaten path and compounded an organic iodine solution which bears a remarkable resemblance to the active and needed constituents of the thyroid gland.

The proper name for the Wallace formula, which we can promptly forget, is tri-chloro-di-phenol-fluoride. Our interest in this high-sounding substance lies in the results obtained through its use at the Central and Neurological Hospital on Blackwell Island during incumbency of Stivelman.

Its influence, significant of the role played by the healthy thyroid gland when able to secrete from food the iodine necessary to the normal resistance of the body, has been followed by almost miraculous results. In the treatment of long-standing, perforating ulcers, emphysema of the lungs, erysipelas of legs and face, toxic poisoning, post-puerperal infections, diphtheria and many other violent cases of poisoning.

The school children will learn from such hints as these that man is guilty of an unpardonable sin when he deliberately removes from his food supply the iodine compounds that nature has provided for other purpose than to make such food commercially profitable. They will learn that all through nature there are fixed laws and significant hints that the fixed laws under which all natural food is elaborated were intended, with the co-operation of man's intelligence, to control the preparation of foods for his health and to serve his needs.

They will learn that nature demands of man that he shall accept the position that her dispensations are not the result of blind accident, but consciously ordered, rhythmical processes, profound in their operation and benevolent in their functions.

PRETTY WEDDING OCCURS IN TOWN LAST EVENING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milton Junction, June 15.—In a bow of beautiful June roses, Miss Gladys Cartwright and Robert West were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents, Prof. and Mrs. A. B. West, Thursday afternoon at five-thirty. Rev. L. C. Randolph performed the ceremony.

Miss Doris Babcock acted as bridesmaid and Carroll West attended the groom. Little Virginia West and Lillian Babcock acted as flower girls and Miss Rachel Coon played the wedding march. About forty-five relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony and partook of the wedding supper. The young couple are highly esteemed and received the best wishes of a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. West left on the evening train for Superior and Menominee, Wis., and will be at home for September first at Salem, West Virginia. The out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. John Atkinson; Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Brown and son, Irving; Mr. and Mrs. Prof. and Mrs. A. B. West, Jr., of Madison; and Miss Margaret Hull of Huron, South Dakota.

WILSON AND MARSHALL.

Both Woodrow Wilson and Vice-president Marshall must have been terribly surprised at the announcement from the democratic national convention that they had been re-nominated as standard bearers of their party. It is to be hoped that the shock was not great for them, for they will be able to survive. It was a Wilson gathering entirely, that St. Louis convention, and everything went off per schedule. Even William Jennings Bryan, defeated for a membership in the Nebraska delegation, was given an ovation and made a speech.

The democrats followed instructions and nominated Wilson and Marshall, passed the platform and were prepared by Wilson, or under his personal direction, and finished up all business "pronto." The overtures to the "Bull Moose" perhaps fell on deaf ears but the activities of some of the La Follette editors to affect a combination, at least in Wisconsin, between the democratic party and the ultra progressives, took definite form and we may expect Wilson clubs to be organized by La Follette leaders in various parts of the state.

Wilson and Marshall and the record of the past four years is what the democratic party offers to the voters of this country at the coming election. There is good reason to believe that the fact that the United States has not been forced into actual war will play a prominent part in the campaign arguments, but it will be an endeavor of covering up the entanglements and mistakes of our nation's foreign policy, both with Mexico and European powers that will hardly suffice.

The democratic party convention was harmonious of one mind—Wilson and they met, deliberated and adjourned having listened to the call of their schoolmaster, leader, and obeyed him to a letter. Their lesson was well taught and the result perfect. It was all attune with no lack of harmony, and it can be said that even if there is a division of opinion in some of the republican cohorts, democracy stands firmly on the record of four years of the "watchful waiting" policy.

NATURE'S REMEDY.

One of the greatest remedies that old Dame Nature has given to mankind is the health-giving element that is gained by communing with her in the stillness of the woods, on the waters of the lakes or rivers, or in the highways and by-ways of country roads. Communing with nature from an automobile is like taking a cure treatment; to get the real benefits you must get right down to the soil itself. Not wallow in it, perhaps, although many go to mud baths and claim much benefit, but enjoy what Dame Nature offers you first hand. Watch the birds and the little bees. See the flowers and the little rivulets. Get down to nature and rub a can full of worms and stuff a fish line in your pocket, a sandwich in another and tie yourself to some stream for a few hours' real, genuine sport of kings that money can not buy. You may take tons of concoctions of herbs, but old Lady Nature offers you right at home a better remedy for the jaded nerves by dipping into her book of knowledge and learning the secrets of the birds' nests, the place to find the mushroom, the tiny corner where an open fire can be built and a bit of a meal cooked and where to walk and see the world with new eyes. Healthy, wealthy and wise, but to gain all three get up early some of these mornings and take a walk amid nature's wonders. No matter what your employment is, nature offers you a change that would do you good. No matter what your ailment, imaginary or otherwise, a consultation with Nature, the greatest physician of all, for a few weeks and you will be a changed individual. Putter about your garden, weed your radishes, cut your lawn, smell the roses, enjoy what comes from fresh cut grass, trim your fig tree and grape vine if you please, but get out of doors and enjoy what is given us to enjoy, free of all charge, and not a part of any giant combine or trust. There is no such thing as a trust on nature's remedies. Try them once and be convinced. Get when the sun dapples in the early hours when the dew drops on the hills, and hear the glad songs of the birds. See nature awakening from her rest and you will live a new life.

SOMEBODY TO BLAME.

When a frightful automobile accident occurs and some pedestrian, be it man, woman or child, is run down by one of the swiftly running cars that scot about the city and turn corners on two wheels, then perhaps the proper officials will pay attention to the increasing practice of permitting the planting of shrubs and vines that are unrestricted on the corner plots outside the sidewalks and form a screen so that persons can not see cars approaching from various directions. It is city property so that the city officials are really responsible. Some years ago the practice started and it beautified many otherwise homely electric or telephone poles. The rank growth of the vegetation, particularly to small children, who cannot look over the tops of the bushes and vines and see if the passageway across the street is clear. They should be trimmed and cared for if permitted to be planted and not allowed to run wild. After someone is killed, some home mourns the loss of a child or dear one through this neglect it will doubtless be remedied—until then, however, let us have some enforcement of safety laws which doubtless fall on deaf ears. In this same connection attention might be called to the fact there is an ordinance calling for the trimming of all shade trees to a certain height above the walk. Several years ago we had an official tree trimmer and he went about and sliced and slashed trees right and left, but the trees did not suffer and the pedestrians enjoyed the freedom of being able to walk with a raised umbrella without having to lower it while passing under trees where branches closed down over the walk a few inches above their heads. However, like the ordinance calling for the clearing of all trees from the sidewalks in winter, it is doubtless a dead letter and absolutely forgotten by this time.

REPORTING A CONVENTION.

It is the dream of every "cub" newspaper reporter that some day he will be assigned to report a national convention. These gatherings are the biggest news events to be covered in American life.

The task of covering one of these historic meetings is not just what the "cub" reporter or the public thinks it is. The newspaper reader may suppose that the staff writer sits in his reserved seat eagerly scratching down with a pencil stub what the orators are saying. But actually he may not be in the convention hall much of the time. The Associated Press gets all the public will read of the speeches. It is for the star reporter to keep close to the real centers of action.

Any active man could go to a national convention and pick up all the gossip that could be telegraphed his paper. The hotels are full of shouters whose business it is to feed out publicity by the word to anyone who will listen, particularly newspaper men. Where journalistic skill comes in, is in being able to weigh this "dope" at its real value.

Covering a national convention adequately involves a wide personal acquaintance with the leaders of political life. The reporter must be able to gain their ear in this crowded and tense moment of conflict and turmoil. Ten words from a man who is helping pull the real strings will be worth more to his paper and to his readers than columns that an untrained man could pick up around the headquarters.

This shows what an intangible thing good newspaper work really is. To the public the real information and mere "hot air" look about alike. But it is the dispatches carefully, and notes the outcome, that tell that the trained man made shrewd forecasts of the situation, while the others were simply using the guesses of outsiders.

Although the work of congress was interrupted by the conventions, yet the members who remained at Washington attended conscientiously to their duties for the pending ball games and looking up jobs for constituents.

The same people who fuss for fear of getting a trifling cold from sitting in a draft, will go to a summer resort and drink water laden with typhoid germs, without making any inquiry about the source of supply.

The aching feet suffered by the Plattsburg training camp men are perhaps due to the modern idea that we can get all the athletic exercise we require by riding in an automobile.

SCHOOLS CLOSE TODAY FOR SUMMER VACATION

Schools of City Close Today for the Summer Vacation.—Teachers Leave for Their Homes.

Today marked the close of the public schools of the city for the annual summer vacation. The graduation exercises of the high school were the closing activities of that school for the year. The grade schools of the city met in session for the last time this morning and a few of the schools employed plentys today. ANNUAL FIELD DAY TO ATTRACT MANY PEOPLE OF COUNTY

Annual Community Field Day Next Wednesday at Rock Prairie Attracts Attention of Rock County People.

Arrangements have been completed by the school board in charge of the annual community field day which will be held at Rock Prairie next Wednesday. Indications are that the celebration will include activities for old and young and everyone is bound to have a good time if they attend this annual event. The field celebration will be on the farm of Mrs. J. Z. McWay of Rock Prairie.

The program committee met last evening and completed the schedule for the day. At ten-thirty o'clock in the morning indoor baseball games will be played between the boys and Y. M. C. A. groups. The girls will not be left out, for all sorts of games for the gentler sex have been arranged.

The baseball game between the married men and the Y. M. C. A. group that is scheduled to take place in the morning is causing a good deal of interest. At noon a picnic dinner will be served, and everyone planning to attend should be there by one o'clock.

At one-thirty o'clock match games, relay races, dashes and games of all varieties will be staged for all. A relay ball game between the city men and farmers, and between the city ladies and the rural girls will take place in the afternoon.

An added feature at the field day this year is that the girls are taking an added interest under the leadership of Miss Florence McLay at the girls of Rock Prairie will take part in the different events. The Emerald group baseball teams have been signed up and will meet late in the afternoon. The Emerald Grove committee will meet this evening to arouse enthusiasm among the citizens of that community and they expect to send a large delegation to Rock Prairie on Wednesday.

A committee from the Janesville Commercial club composed of H. S. Lovejoy, R. E. Overton and A. C. Gardner, have been working up the interest of Janesville people, and it is expected that a large delegation will go out to Rock Prairie in automobiles. Everyone is invited to attend the day.

It is expected that a large number of business men and others from Janesville will attend. Secretary Peter names of all those who are requested to call him over the telephone at the offices of the Janesville Commercial club.

The relay race that the county committee expect to stage in the near future, will be run off as soon as the weather permits.

EXERCISES GIVEN AT MILTON COLLEGE

Successful Commencement Exercises Are Held at Milton College Yesterday.

Commencement day at Milton began clear and bright yesterday morning. The campus was early enlivened with groups of graduates and friends, and by half past nine seemed like busy place. The exercises began at ten o'clock, when the procession consisting of faculty, trustees and graduates, preceded by the Treble Clef and Glee club, moved from the college building past the library to the auditorium. When the procession reached the building both those marching and the audience sang the usual processional hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." After the platform was gained, the Rev. Charles E. Ewing invoked the Divine blessing and the program proceeded as follows:

Gypsy Life—R. Schumann—Mixed Chorus.

Oration—The Inward Criterion—Alison-Lovelle Burdick.

Oration—Specialization in the Formative Period—Lewis Arthur Lush.

The Heavens are Telling—"The Creation," Haydn—Mixed Chorus.

Oration—The Geometry of Character—Anne Egan Post.

Oration—The Call of the Twentieth Century—Carroll Benjamin West.

Annual statement by the President, Board of Trustees and the Faculty.

Conferring of Degrees.

Farewell Words to the Class by the President.

The graduates were marked by originality, sound sense and lofty ideals. Many visitors from Janesville were present and words of appreciation of the noble purposes of Milton were heard from many lips.

The president's annual statement was very encouraging and was received with enthusiasm by friends and alumni. The campaign for increased endowment will immediately be pushed.

The following is the list of the members of the graduating class with titles of their theses. All received the degree of Bachelor of Arts:

William K. Bonnell, Allison L. Burdick, Elva Conrad, Aster F. Davis, Odessa L. Davis, Clifford F. Gesler, Lewis A. Lush, Anna E. Post, Kenneth L. Randolph, Clark H. Siedorf, Nels G. Sorenson, Vida L. Thomas, George Thorgate, Mary C. Wentworth, Carroll B. West, Robert W. West and Zola Zimm.

President Daland announced the class honors as follows:

First Freshman honor, Miss Pearl R. Gaarder. Honorable mention was made to Miss Henrietta Knuth and Miss Georgia H. Brock, all of Janesville.

First Sophomore honor, Miss Beattie M. Buell of Janesville. Second honor, Elroy H. Hinkley of Milton Junction.

First Junior honor, Miss Ruth Stillman of Milton. Second honor, Miss Stephanie Daland of Milton.

First Senior honor, Clifford F. Gesler of Bancor, who has been awarded a scholarship in the University of Wisconsin. Second honor, Miss Zea Zinn of Farina, Ill.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. L. C. Randolph.

At one o'clock the alumni luncheon was served, and at two o'clock a meeting was held in the interests of the proposed campaign, of which Dr. Randolph is to have charge. It is expected that $105,000 will be secured by next commencement, when the semi-centennial anniversary of the founding of Milton College will be held. The amount mentioned will give the college a productive endowment of $250,000.

In the evening the president's reception was held at the president's house, where President and Mrs. Daland with the senior class received the greetings of many friends and visitors.

If You Wish Up-to-date Dentistry

You will get the very latest approved service in my office. I believe few Dentists in the United States are any better equipped, or are doing more advanced work. I am laboring also to keep my fees down where people can pay them. Although I confess it's uphill work, in face of the increased costs of everything a dentist has to buy.

MISS ANNA LITTLE WEDS FRED BURTON

United in Marriage to Fred H. Burton at Rockford by the Rev. W. H. Fulton.

Miss Anna Little, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Little, Pleasant street, was united in marriage to Fred H. Burton at Rockford, Ill., Thursday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. W. H. Fulton. The ceremony was very quiet, being performed in presence of a few immediate relatives and friends.

Miss Little is a popular young lady of this city and has been employed at the P. P. Burns store. Mr. Burton is engaged in the manufacturing business, having a factory on North Jackson street. The future plans of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Burton are not known to their friends in this city.

OBITUARY.

Felix Gallagher.
The body of Felix Gallagher arrived in Janesville from Chicago at 4:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon over the Northwestern road, accompanied by his wife and two sons, James and George Gallagher, and his two brothers, Patrick and Henry Gallagher. They were met by a large gathering of friends who attended services at St. Patrick's church, where the Rev. William Mahoney officiated. Interment was made in Mount Olivet cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Thomas Mackin, Thomas Melegel, Cornelius Murphy, William McGee, George Slightam, and William Scott.

Technical Difficulty.

At one of the rehearsals of a play the "supers" had to go up to an altar and kneel before it. After rehearsing five or six times the stage manager lost his temper with them and shouted: "No, no! Where are your genuflections?" The chief "super" scratched his head with a puzzled expression on his face. "Well, sir," he said, apologetically, "we haven't had them from the property master!"

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our thanks to our many friends for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Felix Gallagher and Sons.

Don't Miss It.

Are You in a Run- Down, Nervous Condition?

The Milk and Rest Treatment will build you up and permit you to gain strength and weight.

But the real treatment can not be taken at home satisfactorily.

A patient must absolutely put themselves under my care to secure proper results. They must come to my private hospital, and take the treatment as it is prescribed.

Then, and only then, can they realize the wonderful results of the "Milk and Rest Treatment."

There are but few physicians in the country qualified to give this treatment as it is intended to be given. My experience proves that it will accomplish what I say it will.

I will be glad to tell you more about it.

DELANVAN REUNION
OPENS ON TUESDAY

Big Three Days' Celebration and Home Coming Starts Next Week
—Great Time Assured.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Delavan, June 16.—Delavan's big home coming is scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21 and 22. The twelve committees in charge have left nothing undone that will make this big southern Wisconsin event an affair that will long be remembered by the thousands who are expected in attendance. A big three days' program has been prepared, consisting of speaking, home coming reunions, musical programs, band concerts, interesting and exciting free street shows, and gorgeous displays of fireworks for the evenings.

Hon. Henry Allen Cooper, representative in congress of the first congressional district, Judge E. B. Belden of Racine, and Hon. Walter C. Owen, attorney general, are the three principal speakers. In addition there will be numerous other addresses by well known men, including Dean George L. Collie of Beloit college.

The city and all business places and most of the residences will be daily and appropriately decorated for the occasion. Music will be furnished by the Elkhorn, Delavan and Burlington bands. Sharon and Darlen, Lake Geneva and Delavan White-water and East Troy baseball teams will play ball on the different days for substantial cash purses. In addition there will also be a game between the old Richmond Blues and the former Linn Champions.

Hundreds of responses have been received by the invitation committee from former residents of Delavan residing in all parts of the country, stating that they will be present for the home coming. Everyone should plan on attending this big affair at least one day.

ANTI-SALOON MEET
STARTS JUNE 25TH

Seventeenth Annual Convention of Anti-Saloon League Will be Held in Indianapolis.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Indianapolis, June 16.—Arrangements have been completed for the holding of the seventeenth national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America in Indianapolis, June 25-29, inclusive. General Superintendent P. A. Baker, of Westville, will call the convention to order Sunday afternoon, June 25, and United States Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, will deliver the principal address of the opening session.

Eight college men, winners of statewide preliminary contests, will discuss the liquor question at an oratorical contest Monday afternoon, which will be held in connection with the convention, but under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, with Harry S. Warner, secretary of the association, presiding. The speakers in the contest are: G. R. Lawrence, Northwestern University; Delloyd F. Wood, Ohio Wesleyan; Robert S. Miller, Pennsylvania College; George D. Castro, University of Michigan; M. K. Thomson, Wesleyan University; Leon E. Carnell, Syracuse University; and a representative from Maine, to be chosen. Daniel A. Poling, of Boston, and Rev. Morton S. Rice, of Detroit, are to address the convention of the evening.

Wilson to Preside.
Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of New York City, will preside on Thursday morning. At this session Sam Small of Georgia, will deliver the keynote address. Addresses in the afternoon will be given by P. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Illinois League; C. E. Kane, financial secretary of the national organization; Dr. Carolyn E. Geisel, Battle Creek, Mich.; Frederick Landis, Logansport, Ind.; and the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Temperance Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the evening session, Bishop Wilson, William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York League, and Judge S. D. Wesley, of Birmingham, Ala., will speak.

John G. Willacy, of Texas; Wayne B. Wheeler, attorney for the national organization, and Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of Denver, are on the program for the session Wednesday morning. Officers of the league in various states are to speak in the afternoon. Former governor Richard Yates, of Illinois; former Congressman Richmond P. Hobson, of Alabama, and Rev. Ben H. Spence, general secretary of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance of Toronto, Canada, will deliver addresses at the evening session.

The Closing Day.
Thursday, the closing day, calls for addresses by the Rev. Louis A. Banks, Delaware, Del.; Malcolm R. Patterson, Memphis, Tenn.; and the Rev. George R. Stuart, Knoxville, Tenn. Go Moses Alexander, of Idaho, will be the principal speaker at the afternoon session. The final session, Thursday evening, will be addressed by Maj. Dan M. Smith, of Chicago, and John G. Woolley, of Madison, Wis.

The local branch of the league is making elaborate preparations for the convention and is expecting more than 1,000 visitors.

AFTON

MISS SELMA HAMMEL
WEDS WALTER C. CHAPIN

Afton, June 15.—Wednesday evening, June 14, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hammel, occurred the marriage of Miss Selma Louise Hammel, to Walter C. Chapin of Evansville, Ind. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock the bride and groom took their place and the Reverend Theodore Bretschger of Beloit performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The couple was attended by Miss Steele, sister of the groom, Miss Steele, also of Evansville, and Miss Evelyn Mueller, and the Messrs. Wisch of Milwaukee. Noak of Des Plaines, Iowa, cousins of the bride, and Fred Brinkman of Willmette, Ill. The bride was crowned in white and wore a beautiful veil looped with orange blossoms. She carried white roses. The house was decorated with ferns, peonies and roses. During the elaborate supper which followed the ceremony and congratulations, Smiley's orchestra of Beloit rendered several beautiful selections. After the supper the company repaired to Brinkman's hall where dancing was indulged in for several hours. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hammel and has spent her entire life here, where she is one of the popular young ladies of the village. The bridegroom is an electrician whose home is at Evansville. After a short wedding trip the young couple will take up their residence at the home of the bride's parents.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chapin and Miss Chapin of Evansville, parents and sister of the groom, also a brother and wife from Evansville; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hammel, uncle and aunt of the bride; Watertown; Mrs. Noak, aunt of the bride; Des Plaines, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hammel and family and Otto Deitloff of Beloit.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

"The Bondsman" is one more novel which has been lifted from the realms of fiction and placed on the screen. Hall Caine undoubtedly had little idea that his book would be visualized when he wrote it, but times change and now the book has been made into a moving picture. William Fairbank has the leading role and he has the support of Dorothy Bernard, the little lady who so often plays opposite him.

THEATRICAL STORY
IN McDermott FILM.

Mrs. McDermott, now a recognized player, is making great headway in a feature written especially for Mr. McDermott by Louis Joseph Vance. It will be completed in time for release during the early summer.

In this story Mr. Vance tells of the struggle for existence of a young girl who endeavors to make a name for herself in the theatrical world. How she is lured by a young playboy who falls in love with her is graphically portrayed. The picture gives a good idea of the life and people of "the painted world."

The big company with Douglas Fairbanks as star, and Alan Dwan as director, are still in the big tree country of California working on "The Carquinez Woods." In this story, Fairbanks appears in the part of a half breed.

E. H. Sothern has started work and will begin his camera record with Justin Huntley McCarthy's play, "If I Were King." It is expected that Anita Stewart will play with Mr. Sothern.

Iva Shepherd says any screen kiss lasting more than six feet of film is just a matter of business. Being a vampire, she has many matters of business.

Billie Burke says that all she does to keep her hair shiny and fluffy and beautiful is to wash it when it is dry and treat it to a sunning every time she has a chance.

Mr. Tormohlen of Delavan was here Thursday in the interest of Y. M. C. A. work. Ella Rudway has gone to Plattsburgh, Kans., for a visit with her cousin.

Will Horch, John Chester and George Peterson spent Thursday at Geneva lake fishing.

Mrs. C. Goelzer and daughter, Pauline, returned home Thursday from visiting her brother, Edwin Sweet, and family at Clinton.

W. C. Kuryne is spending a few days in Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hansen and son, Russell, spent Thursday at the home of E. H. Willey.

Vivian Rectory was a Janesville visitor Thursday.

Dr. Irons of Chicago was here on business, Thursday, and remained over until the next day.

Mrs. Carl Martin and daughter, Mrs. Holt, were out of town visitors on Thursday.

St. Catherine's congregation will hold their annual picnic Wednesday, June 28, at the ball park. Big preparations are being made to care for the large crowd that always attends.

Miss Benneweis and Mrs. L. Lowell left Thursday for Janesville to visit their brother, Dr. Benneweis.

Stokes, wife and two children left Thursday for their home at Beloit Creek, Iowa, after spending a week at the home of Mrs. Stokes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wolfstrom.

Miss Lillian Severing of Harvard is here caring for her sister, Mrs. Brunner, who is quite ill.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, June 15.—Lightning struck the barn on the A. H. Breitkreutz farm, and also killed three head of cattle in the yard beside the barn Tuesday morning.

Dusik brothers of Janesville are drilling a well on the Fred Hale farm. John Milner of Clinton and Muriel Howard were Watertown visitors on Tuesday.

R. K. Overton is in Chicago today with stock.

Mr. Maas of Belleville spent Sunday at William Conway's.

Harley Worthington of Everton, Neb., visited at P. L. Chesmore's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright entertained Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Quinn of Janesville and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Conroy, Sunday.

The L. M. B. S. will meet at the hall Wednesday, June 21.

GREECIAN VILLAGE VOTES TO KEEP ALL THEIR GRAIN.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Athens, June 16.—"This is the chief of police at A'tia," explained a man at the other end of the wire when the telegram rang in the department of the interior offices today. A'tia is a village of 500, not far from Athens.

"We've held a mass meeting in our town this afternoon and decided that we will not allow the exportation of grain from our village. Five hundred of us voted to that effect."

Inquiry developed that, when the British blockade began against Greece, the village banker in A'tia laid in a large supply of grain and flour and today A'tia is one of the very few villages in Greece that has all the flour it wants. The village folks determined to follow the plan of the great nations in similar situations but the small grain supply of Greece is so unevenly distributed that the chances are that A'tia may be forced by the department of the interior to part with some of its hoard, in spite of the village resolution.

Dorothy Bernard.
For some years she was a star on the legitimate stage, and appeared in Frohman's production of "The Amazons." She has also starred at the head of her own company, and is well known in stock all over the country. The experience thus gained won her immediate success, when she decided to go into the films.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

"The Moral Fabric" on Saturday. In presenting "The Moral Fabric," the Triangle-Kay Bee feature starring Frank Mills, talented and experienced actor of the speaking stage at the Beverly on Saturday. Producer Thos. H. Ince claims to offer a subject of absorbing interest and a most unusual plot. The theme of the story is the fallacy of the "free love" theory, and the play is a blow at the basic structure of the principle which the advocates of the "free love" propaganda profess to expound.

The grand finale is from the pen of C. Gardner Sullivan, of the Ince staff of photo playwrights. He presents a woman who is deceived by the wiles of a rich young man, and her husband, a man of few words, but a deep thinker. About this trio Sullivan has conceived a plot that causes the two weaker characters to undergo a complete change, and which presents the fallacies of their theory as they would work out in actual practice.

The husband, of course, is the one who is deceived by the wiles of a rich young man, and her husband, a man of few words, but a deep thinker. About this trio Sullivan has conceived a plot that causes the two weaker characters to undergo a complete change, and which presents the fallacies of their theory as they would work out in actual practice.

AT THE APOLLO.

Mary Pickford tonight. "A Girl of Yesterday." Mary Pickford's production at the Apollo tonight is the story of a prim little miss who leads a life of seclusion with her brother and her aunt. She has always dressed several generations behind the rest of the world, but has still been sufficiently attractive to attract the love of discerning Stanley Hudson, her next door neighbor. So great is the modesty of the little reclusive that she does not realize her irresistible attractiveness despite the fact that these same charms have made her the mortal enemy of another girl who loves Stanley.

The sudden acquisition of a huge fortune makes Jane a desideratum in circles from which she had been previously barred by her poverty, and her conquests are legion, without the assistance of a modern wardrobe. When Jane suddenly decides to adopt modern apparel and the other girl realizes that a desperate coup is necessary to win the wavering Stanley, she induces an aviator to kidnap Jane just as they are about to start on a yachting trip. The aviator, however, fails to prevent Jane from reaching the yacht in time to embark, and after a slightly stormy trip, she and Stanley finally make port in the harbor of Love.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.
Marie Walcamp in "The Flirt." The vivacious Marie Walcamp, leading lady for Bluebird Photoplays, has been cast in a role exactly to her liking in "The Flirt," which will be the attraction at the Beverly theatre tonight. Booth Tarkington's serial story has been adapted to the screen by Lois Weber (Mrs. Smalley) and Phillips Smalley has directed Bluebird players in a most entertaining picturization of the clever American story.

Miss Walcamp will be favorably recalled for her work in a recent Bluebird feature "Hop, the Devil's Brew," when she was called upon to interpret quite a different role than that of the flirtatious heart-breaker she impersonates in the Tarkington story. Very few of the younger stars in photoplays have gathered so quickly the large and royal following among picture fans as has Miss Walcamp.

Three men had been her victims: the "flirt" was utterly heartless and self-willed. Her sole aim in life seemed to be enticement of men into her meshes, only to cast them off as lightly as she would one of her dainty wraps. The village belle was notorious for her flirtatious conduct until one day the "right man" came along and she was abundantly punished. How she received a dose of her own medicine will be illustrated in "The Flirt."

AT THE APOLLO.

Mutt and Jeff Cartoons With Vaudeville.
As an extra attraction for Saturday the Apollo announces that Bud Fisher's amusing cartoons of the funny Mutt and Jeff will be shown in motion pictures in addition to the vaudeville.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Next Time Father Won't Be so Personal in His Jokes

BY F. LEIPZIGER

Most Eminent Medical Authorities Endorse It.

Dr. Eberle and Dr. Braithwaite as well as Dr. Simon—all distinguished authors—agree that whatever may be the disease, the urine seldom fails in furnishing us with a clue to the principles upon which it is to be treated, and accurate knowledge concerning the nature of disease can thus be obtained. If backache, scalding urine or frequent urination bother or distress you, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, gout or sciatica or you suspect kidney or bladder trouble just write Dr. Pierce at the Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y.; send a sample of urine and describe symptoms. You will receive free medical advice after Dr. Pierce's chemist has examined the urine—this will be carefully done without charge, and you will be under no obligation. Dr. Pierce during many years of experimentation has discovered a new remedy which he finds is thirty-seven times more powerful than lithia in removing uric acid from the system. If you are suffering from backache or the pains of rheumatism, go to your best druggist and ask for a 50-cent box of "Amuric" put up by Dr. Pierce. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak women and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood have been favorably known for the past forty years and more. They are standard remedies to-day—as well as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for the liver and bowels. You can get a sample of any one of these remedies by writing Dr. Pierce.

Doctor Pierce's Pellets are unequaled as a Liver Pill. One tiny, Sugar-coated Pellet a Dose. Cure Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels.

Variations of Temperature
Physiologists find that the normal body temperature, instead of being fixed, rises in the morning and afternoon and falls at night, with a daily range that may exceed 2 degrees F. Strenuous muscular exercise may cause a rise of 3/4 degrees. Even a drink of hot water may give a rise of more than 1 degree, but the increase from warm meals is seldom greater than 1 degree. Cold food or drink causes a fall, followed by a rise.

Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain mulled coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

WISHES FRIENDS WOULD TRY IT

Green Bay Man Who Used New Medicine With Good Results Tells About It.

Mike Betin, a glove cutter and well known in Green Bay where he resides at 1157 Stuart street, was subject to dizzy spells as well as being generally run down. How he got relief from this condition by using Tanlac, the new medicine, he tells as follows: "I was all run down and generally worn out. I had that dead tired feeling nearly all the time. I had no energy at all. My appetite was extremely poor and my digestion was also very bad. I used to suffer from severe pains across my back. I slept badly at nights and seldom got any real rest. I had dizzy spells which used to bother me to a great extent. "Tanlac was recommended to me and I started using it with splendid results. I can already sleep well and have a good appetite, although I have been taking the medicine but a short time. I am feeling stronger and more able to work. I am certainly thankful to Tanlac for what it has done for me and advise all to give it a trial. I wish all my ailing friends would try it."

Tanlac, the medicine which helped Mr. Betin so much, may now be obtained here at Smith's Drug store. (Advertisement)

THE NEW CLARION

By... WILL N. HARBEN

Copyright, 1914, by Harper & Brothers

"This home ain't nothin' wavyed his hand in the direction of the house. 'I raised 'im an' educated 'im to see 'im git too big fer his britches. He has the cheek to argue with me an' dispute what's laid down in this book. He's wiser'n the Almighty hisself, who gave his word to live by. The young fool denies it all, I tell you, an' why he ain't struck dead in his tracks fer blasphemy I don't know."

"Maybe he is more pleasin' to the Lord than you imagine," Abner sat down on the end of the wash bench, and, crossing his long legs, swung his right foot up and down.

Hiram jerked the Bible from beneath his arm, and raising his foot to the bench, he opened the book on his knee. Rapidly he turned the pages, a furtive gleam in his eyes. "I've got authority for my stand," he cried. "This book tells me my duty plain enough. I don't have to go to a puny man like you, who is even now sayin' exactly what the devil prompts. Listen close to this an' see of anythin' could possibly be plainer. Matthew xi, 35: 'For I'm come—' that's our Savior speakin', remember—'I'm come to set a man at variance against his father—' No, that ain't it, wait! 'For a man's foes shall be of his own household—' That ain't it neither. Here it is, verse 37: 'He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me, an' he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me.'"

"I kerch pore pint," Abner smiled slightly, "an' all I got to say is that I don't intend to let you nor no other crusty old duck like you interpret my scripture fer me. Now, I've always thought that Jesus meant somethin' like this, for instance: Ef a man had a son, we'll say, that wanted to go into hess steatin' fer a regular business an' invited his pa to help 'im out, why, the man was advised to part company with 'im, ef of reform was impossible. But yore boy hain't done nothin' but read a little on fresh lines an' think fer 'isself. It is all in the way you look at it, you see. I don't want to be rough, Hiram, but I believe ef Jesus was to come upon us at this minute he'd tell you that in yore lack of love an' kindness, both to yore wife an' son, you are a whole generation of wipers an' hypocrites stuffed in one pair of pants. He said, 'Judge not, that ye be not judged,' an' you are judgin' that yore boy's heart without seein' even the outside wrappin's o' it. Jesus would say you was tryin' to git a mote out o' the boy's eye when you have a beam in yore own as big as any piece o' timber that ever left a sawmill."

Tinsley was white with rage. Closing the Bible, he pushed it back under his arm. "I'll attend to my business an' you attend to your'n," he panted. The next morning Abner drove to the village of Darley. He had a bale of cotton on his wagon. He unloaded the cotton at the main warehouse, where he unharnessed his horses and tethered them to a hitching post in a vacant lot near by. In a grocery store across the street he secured two small boxes into which he put some oats. At the same store he borrowed a pail and watered the horses from a well in the middle of the street. After this was done Abner went into the Johnston House, built long before the civil war. Abner sauntered into the hotel office, and, approaching the clerk's counter to a corner of the room, he leaned on a small showcase for cigars. The clerk, a middle aged man by the name of Sugart, was sorting some letters and placing them in the numbered pigeon-holes which held the keys of the various rooms. He lighted a cigar. "Say, Tum," he went on, "have you seen Howard Tinsley around this mornin'?" "Yes, he was in at breakfast. He's staying here regular now. Say, what's wrong between him and his pa, Mr. Daniel? Howard doesn't keep back anything from his friends, and I am one. He didn't say what it was about, but when he engaged his room here yesterday he was mad as Tucker. He intimated that he had been ordered away from home."

Abner's forehead wrinkled between his bushy brows. "I don't keep track o' sech things," he said. "Ef that is any misunderstanding I reckon it will git smoothed out. Old Tinsley means well, an' so does Howard."

"There won't be any smooth out this time," the clerk smiled knowingly. "Howard's had enough on all sides. Hiramhouse won't give him any show here in town, and his father won't go home. He's going west to grow up with the country. He's got his eye on some new, booming town in Texas. He is a rising newspaper man; best judges say so. You are going to take dinner with us, ain't you?"

Abner wrote his name on the register.

Later Howard Tinsley arrived and told of his resolve to leave town. That evening at dusk as Howard was passing the big parlor of the hotel on his way to his room to dress for the dance the young people had arranged in his and Miss Cora Langham's honor he met that young lady strolling toward the long veranda which overlooked the main street.

"It is very kind of the boys to do this, isn't it?" she said in her soft, melior voice. "Oh, they are nice! I love them all. My society friends in Atlanta wonder how I can have such a good time here in the summer. You see they want to go to New York or Atlantic City. They would die or be disgraced in their own estimation if they didn't get to those places once a year, but as for me—well, when the summer rolls around I am simply famished for old Darley." Miss Langham was visiting friends.

"I think I understand," he smiled. "You think you do?" She raised her long lashes and gazed at him with a pained expression. "You are going to say something mean again, and right now when you are going away too."

"Why, you are a natural woman," he laughed. "You have had the admiration of men all your life. You have fed upon it as a regular diet till it has become almost the chief part of your existence. Down in Atlanta, however, your field is not quite so novel."

"My field?" she sniffed. "I don't like that word."

"It is all right," he laughed teasingly. "Down there the young men are busier, as a class, and there are other girls in your set. I am sure, who like admiration, and they keep playing the game. But here there is only one of your particular kind. You have charmed this whole rural bunch, old and young, married and unmarried, and you enjoy it, that's all. You would not be true to your type if you did not enjoy it."

"Howard," she put her hand on his arm. "Howard, do you know you are the only man who ever dared to speak to me like this? I wish I could get angry with you, but I can't."

"That's because I am sincere. I mean what I say, and you know it. I heard you say once quite frankly that fully thirty different men had proposed to you. I don't doubt it and that fully fifty have been in love with you. I feel your charm myself. It fairly sweeps me off my feet at times, and I have to clutch at something. There is only one straw, and I grab it."

A flush of delight suffused her face. She was fairly off her guard. "What is that straw, pray?" she asked. "Why, the fact that my best judgment tells me you are not for me. I simply refuse to fall into the masculine scrap heap your dainty feet have kicked aside. You are the most delicious creature I ever met. There are moments in which I let my imagination fairly sweep me away with the fancy that we love each other, but I hold myself in check."

Her face hardened a little under sheer perplexity. "You will write to me when you get located in the west, won't you?" "As an old friend, perhaps, yes," he answered firmly, "but not as one of the scrap heap. Our ways really are wide apart. I am going to try to make a living. You will continue, supported by your father's money, to break hearts to the end."

She put her hand on his arm, and they walked through the as yet unlighted corridor toward the veranda on the opposite side of the building. "Howard, you have no idea how much I like you. I think I like you more than any one I ever met. I am not sure, but I think so."

CHAPTER II. Abner's Decision.

HOWARD and Cora had reached the veranda in the rear and were quite alone and unobserved. Obedying a sudden impulse, he took her face between his two hands. His fine eyes were full of passion as he raised her lips toward his. Suddenly he paused, dropped his hands, and his lips grew firm, his jaw set. "I shall not kiss you," he said bluntly. "Other men have kissed you. You admitted it once, and you had no idea how it stabbed my dream to the core. If I were to kiss you, Cora, I'd never leave you."

neck. "You've got to," she said, raising her face to his.

Firmly he caught her hands and drew them down and held them. "You are a flirt," he said bitterly. "You don't like the word, but that is what you are. I know I could love you, body, heart and soul, but I won't let myself do it. You are rich, while I have scarcely a dollar to my name. I haven't even a position in which to earn a bare living. Out west I shall be little better than a tramp at the start, anyway. I may have to work as a common servant for some family like yours. I have heard that you refused to marry a very wealthy man."

"Not only one, but several," she answered. "I didn't love them. They were not like you, Howard. You are strong, manly and proud. You have more pride than any man I ever met."

"Let's talk of something else," he said, his face darkening, as he turned from her and stood at the balustrade. "Why?" she asked, drawing near to him again, her appealing eyes fixed on him.

"Because it is doing neither of us a bit of good," he replied firmly. "You would never let yourself care deeply for a man like me even if you had the inclination. All you people with money are bound down to money and all that goes with it. The poor young man who marries an heiress these days is a born fool—that is, if he meets an heiress fool enough to marry him. The woman of that sort is not born who will not sooner or later throw it in his teeth."

That night after the dance was over Cora went up to her room. Her mother, in the adjoining chamber, heard her and came in and sat down. She wore a light blue dressing gown and was a blond who quite resembled her daughter in features and physique.

"I thought you all would never get through down there," she said wearily. "I wish I could get out of the habit of lying awake till you come in. Well, did you have a good time?"

"Yes," Cora said slowly, without looking at her mother, and beginning to take down her abundant hair.

"I don't believe it," Mrs. Langham said firmly. "I don't believe it because you are down in the mouth as you have been for the last week. What is the matter with you?"

"Nothing," Cora's tone was sharp and full of irritation. "Nothing, mother."

The older woman rose and stood at her daughter's side. "There is something wrong, and I think I know what it is. You have allowed yourself to get interested in Howard Tinsley. You know well enough that he is out of the question. You are sentimental, as I used to be, but you have too much common sense to think of marrying such a man. Still, that is all the more reason for you to imagine you care for him. Cora, I want to know one thing, and I want to know it before I go to bed."

"What is it, mother?" Cora sighed as she met her mother's stare. "I want to know if Howard Tinsley really is a long away?" "Yes, the day after tomorrow."

"It is settled?" "Absolutely."

"Has he had the cheek to ask you—have you engaged yourself to him?" "No, mother; he has never made any proposal. We may not even correspond. He is not an ordinary man. He is different from all the rest. Oh, don't talk to me any more tonight. I'm tired. I don't know what I am saying."

"Well," Mrs. Langham replied sharply, "I'm glad he's going. You are in a dangerous mood. I've known girls to make themselves miserable over such things. I promised your father to watch over you carefully, and here in this poky, sleepy town you are on the verge of making a goose of yourself. You are like most other girls—you want what is out of your reach."

You know you can't marry that mountain boy, and for that very reason you think you love him. Yes, I certainly shall be glad when he is gone. Surely you will come to your senses then!" Alone before her mirror Cora finished undressing. She blew out her light and lay down on the big, cool bed before a wide open window. "I wonder," she mused. "If I do love him? I don't know, and yet—and yet!"

After breakfast the next day Howard sauntered out on the street and looked about him. Several white hooded wagons from the mountains were standing near to the sidewalk, their owners passing from store to store with samples of produce. Clerks were sweeping out the stores and displaying their wares. It was a busy, attractive scene. With a fresh pang at heart Howard realized that there was only one other day before him and all this would be out of his life. In a group of farmers and clerks in front of Tarp's widely advertised "emporium" he noticed a tall, brawny farmer shaking hands with everybody that passed. It was Pole Baker, who, with a valise in hand, had just alighted from the south bound train. He had laughing brown eyes, a great shock of stiff chestnut hair and a bushy mustache. Seeing Howard, he came to him with his brown hand extended cordially. "How are you, Howard, old boy?" he said. "Didn't look for me home so quick, did you—after our long talks about Texas? Here I am back on the old stompin' ground, an' they tell me, by gum, that you are just gettin' ready to go."

"You have come back after your wife and children, I suppose," Howard said. "Have you selected a location?" "Have I?" Baker wiped his facia lips with his big hand and smiled and winked. "I was tellin' these fellows I had to let myself down easy, but I hain't a-goin' to lie to you, Howard. Do you know what I'm a-goin' to do, my friend? I'm goin' to settle down over there in them mountains an' eat hog an' hominy like a white man an' a free, God-fearin' citizen of America to the end o' my days. I've had my belly full o' prospectin' to try to better my condition."

Dinner Stories

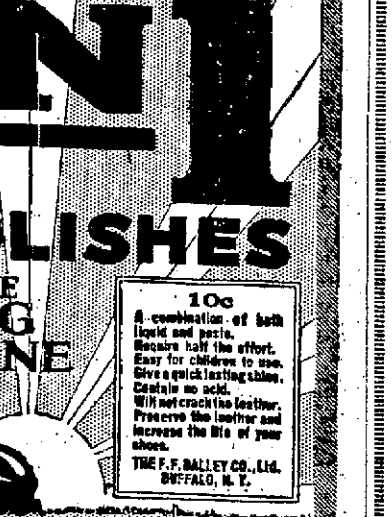

Eugene was a very mischievous little boy and his mother's patience was worn to the limit. She had spoken very nicely to him several times without effect. Finally she said: "You are a perfect little heathen!" "Do you mean it?" demanded Eugene. "Indeed, I do," said the mother. "Then, mother," said the boy, "why have he had the cheek to ask you—have you engaged yourself to him?"

"No, mother; he has never made any proposal. We may not even correspond. He is not an ordinary man. He is different from all the rest. Oh, don't talk to me any more tonight. I'm tired. I don't know what I am saying."

Had Suffered For Over Eight Years

Doctors Advised an Operation but Simple Remedy Made it Unnecessary.

For over eight years Mr. U. S. G. Henry, 806 East 6th St., Oklahoma City, had suffered with stomach and liver trouble until finally he could no longer stand the pain. He says: "The doctors told me nothing but an operation would give me relief. I decided to first try Fruitola and Traxo, which relieved me of a quantity of gall stones and I have no further pain or trouble from my old complaint. I would not take $500.00 for what your remedies have done for me."

Fruitola, as the name implies, is a pure fruit oil, combined with certain harmless salts, and acts as a lubricant on the intestinal parts, softening the hardened masses, disintegrating the masses suffering and causing so much suffering and expelling the accumulation to the patient's great relief. Traxo acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It is a splendid tonic and serves to build up and restore the weakened run-down system.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milw. St.

Upon the occasion of a well-known wedding he began to decant on the absurdities of the marriage service. "When I married," he said, "all the worldly goods with which I endowed my wife might have been carried in a bundle over my shoulder."

"Ah, but Robert," interposed Mrs. Lowe, "there was your great intellect."

"Well, I certainly did not endow you with that, dear," was the rejoinder.

In explaining the sources of food supplies, and the refining processes preceding their appearance on the table, the teacher asked how coffee was prepared. The youngster to whom she put the question said he couldn't tell.

"I am surprised at you. And you a grocer's son, too!" "If you please," said the boy in self-vindication, "I do know, but I mustn't tell. It's a trade secret, and father would whip me if I told."

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will generally stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold. All druggists sell Resinol Soap and Ointment.

The Gift of God

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of Practical Course Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.—Romans 6:23

A gift is something for which we do not work. It is something that is not naturally ours just due. It is something that someone graciously gives us because he or she is interested in us. This text in the revision speaks of the free gift of God. Now there are many people who expect to pay their way into heaven—many who expect to compensate God for eternal life. When the text says that the free gift of God is eternal life, eternal life—what is it? It is the opposite of eternal death. Not eternal death does not mean nonexistence any more than eternal life means continued existence. God's word teaches that the soul never dies, in the sense of being out of existence. It does say that "The soul that sinneth, it shall die," but we must interpret the words of the Bible by the Bible. The Bible, you know, is not only a book that gives us the truth, but it defines the truth that it gives, and when it talks about eternal death it does not mean the annihilation of the soul. It is a truth that whatever exists always exists, so the scientists tell us, and the Bible says that the human soul lives forever. Well, what is eternal life then, and what is eternal death? Perhaps we might say that eternal life means being born of God, having the life of God. It is not our natural life prolonged into endless duration. It is the divine life imparted to us, the very life of God himself communicated to a human soul. To put it in another way, we might say that eternal life is right existence, while eternal death is wrong existence, or, to put it in still another way, eternal life is living in the presence of God, while eternal death is having the wrath of God abiding on one.

Now, God's gift is eternal life. Our text says that he offers us this life through Jesus Christ our Lord, that is, Christ is the medium through whom eternal life comes. What a wonderful thing it is to know that God has planned to give the human race, dead in trespasses and in sins, eternal life through his Son. What is involved in that truth? A great deal, my friends.

First of all, that on the cross Christ died for our sins.

Secondly, that there upon the cross God laid upon Christ all our sins.

Thirdly, that all our sins will be forgiven us on condition of our simple acceptance by faith of his Son, and the one who thus receives his Son, we are told, is born, "not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." I have met many people who were striving to get eternal life. I have even met Christians who have had the idea that eternal life becomes theirs, not through faith, but by works of righteousness which they do.

I shall never forget preaching in a little church in the Catskills, and talking about the way of salvation, when a brother arose and controverted what I said about the simple way of having eternal life through the acceptance by faith of Jesus Christ as one's Savior. Another brother, thinking he would pour oil on the water, which was very troublesome just then, told about two theologians who were crossing a stream. One of the theologians was arguing that salvation was by works, and the other that salvation was by faith, when the carsman, listening to the argument, began to row with one oar, and the boat went round and round, when they said, "What are you doing?" and he replied, "Don't you see, that oar with which I am rowing is works, and I don't get anywhere, and then he took the other oar and rowed with that, and went round and round in the other direction, and he said, "That oar, you see, is faith, and when I row alone with that we do not get across the stream. To reach the other shore we must row with both oars." That was a good story, but a poor illustration, for, while it sounds very plausible, the trouble is it is not scriptural. The Bible tells us that it is "not by works of righteousness that we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us." Change the illustration and have it true to the Scriptures. Jesus Christ is the oarsman, and is rowing the boat of salvation from earth to heaven, and if we would reach the other shore what we must do is by simple faith to get on board.

I go down to the ferry slip in New York. Now, if I wish to go across to the other side, what I must do is to step upon the ferry boat. The moment I do that I have trusted myself to the ferry, and it is for the ferry now, by its own power, to take me over. This crudely illustrates Christ's work of salvation for us. We commit ourselves to him, and he, by his own power and work saves us.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

PHILIPPIAN JAILOR.
Spiritualism is no matter of recent date. It can be traced to the remotest antiquity in some form or other. St. Paul had hardly pressed his foot on the continent of Europe before he encountered it. As he went down the street of Philippi with his little company of evangelists to the preaching place on the river bank, he was followed by a young woman who kept calling in a plaintive strain "These men are the servants of the most high god who show us the way of salvation!" The authorized version says she was possessed with a spirit of divination, or as in the marginal reading, "a spirit of Python." The Pythian oracle at Delphi was greatest of all and last to lose its hold upon popular belief. As it was inconvenient and expensive to go in person to the seat of the oracle, there were numerous cheap imitations of the original abroad. This young woman was one of them. She was a girl-gypsy, investment, yielding large dividends to the syndicate that owned her. She was to all intents and purposes a spiritualistic medium. Through her be-fooled people thought they communicated with their departed friends, and she was consulted in matters of business and love.

Pythonesse had, of course, heard of the apostle and his preaching, and that the burden of it was "salvation." So she followed the apostles daily with her eerie chant. The keen mind of St. Paul instantly discerned his dilemma. He could not receive patronage for his gospel from such a source without degrading it. Yet he could not silence the Pythonesse without freeing her from the spell she was under. In that case the "trust" that owned her would be bankrupt and correspondingly angry at the apostle. His conclusion was instantaneous. No suggestion of policy had any weight with him. Turning to the unfortunate girl, he said to the demon that possessed her, "I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her!" Instantly she was restored to a normal life. She regained that greatest of all possessions, self-possession. Her epileptic derangement, on which others had traded, was cured. * * * The moment her proprietors saw that the hope of their gains was gone, there burst upon the head of the apostle a cyclone of wrath. The Roman law allowed the accuser to act as the arresting officer. So they seized Paul and Silas and with no gentle hand dragged them into presence of the magistrate. For an instant they themselves were in a dilemma as to how to frame an accusation against Paul had stolen a pig it would have been easy, but how could they charge him with stealing a spirit. Property right in a devil had no recognition in law. But these men were not to be denied the sweets of revenge. To trump a charge and back it with an appeal to racial prejudice was easy. They raised the cry, "They Jews!" "We Romans!"

The scene of a Roman province, which every governor sought to avoid. Sight of blood might appease the mob. St. Paul and his companion were stripped and scourged. A moment after this disgraceful scene the apostles found themselves thrust into a dungeon and their feet fast in the stocks. * * * The tempter must have been near to whisper "fine opening this for your gospel! Your vision at Tarsus must have been an illusion! What reply does the apostle make? Listen! On the still air of midnight rises a sound never heard before in that prison. Its walls had often echoed to foul curse or ribald song or sigh of captive. But never before to sound like this. "At midnight Paul and Silas prayed and sang praises and the prisoners heard them." * * * Immediate and glorious was the answer to the apostle's prayer. Most earthquakes are destructive. This one was not. Prison doors were opened and prisoner's chains fell off. That was all. * * * In the midst of it St. Paul's alert ear detected another sound. Steel whirled from its scabbard, as the officer was on the point of taking his own life, which would be the forfeit if the prisoners escaped and escaped they would have had St. Paul's magnanimity is superb. He cries, "Do thyself no harm. We are all here!" Such an unearthly spirit put the finishing stroke to the keeper's conviction as he cried "What must I do to be saved?" St. Paul epitomizes the whole gospel when he answers "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ." There at the prison fountain is a double washing by the light of shining truth. The rough hand of the jailer made gentle by grace bathes the bloody welts upon the apostle's back, while from the same fountain he gives the jailer the outward and visible sign of the inward and spiritual grace he had already received.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
No wonder that one of the strongest of churches springs from a scene like this. St. Paul's patient endurance, his magnanimity and courage could not be forgotten. Miraculous deliverance, conversion of jailer, official visit of praetors to liberate those whom they had unjustly condemned, all put the gospel in a light favorable to its acceptance. * * * Joy was a characteristic of the church at Philippi, and to this church St. Paul later poured out his soul in the most joyous of his epistles. In prison he turned attention to present-day treatment of prisoners. Oriental prisons are still unspeakably foul and plague-stricken, but in view of boasted Occidental superiority prisons of Europe and America are not proportionately better. Woods Hutchinson says the only way to improve them is to dynamite them. They are fatally wrong both in construction and management. * * * The prisoners heard the apostles. There is subtle and lasting power in song. Many a song is in effect a sermon. A favorite lyric tells of an arrow and a song both shot at random into the air. Years after the arrow was found in an oak and the song in the heart of a friend.

John XVI, 24-33.
THE USEFULNESS OF GOOD CHEER.
A man of uniformly grim visage, suddenly appeared with a statelike smile.

It persisted for several months and was then as suddenly succeeded by the former forbidding look. When asked an explanation he said he was tired of a smile that "wouldn't come off." The thing was assumed and artificial. Nothing is more offensive than the official smile of the salesman or public employee. It is unreal, a counterfeit. Nobody wants it passed upon them. Genuine good cheer on the contrary is not assumed. It is not a veneer, not external at all. Any outward expression is only a visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace. The source of it is conscious fellowship with the Divine which makes one superior to his environment. It has its supreme exemplification in Jesus. He could say in the very hour which had now come when his disciples were to be scattered, "Alone! Yet not alone because the Father is with me." In that word the source and conservation of his good cheer is revealed. It justifies him in saying to his disciples, even in sight of impending tribulation, "be of good cheer. I have overcome the world!"

Whitewater News

RE-MAPPING EUROPE WILL BE HARD TASK

Setting of Boundaries to Be a Diplomatic Problem That May Take Many Years.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

London, June 16.—Remapping Europe after the war is going to be as colossal a diplomatic task as the war has been a military undertaking. European statesmen believe it will take several years. Some say things will begin to adjust themselves gradually while the fighting still progresses and that the struggle will subside by degrees as these readjustments are affected in spots.

To show how complicated the situation will be, the following is a summary, from good diplomatic authorities, of the changes the allies unquestionably will demand if they win decisively over the central powers: Belgium restored and possibly given possession of Holland as far as the river Woel; Holland, in this case, being compensated by a gift of German territory to and including Cleve.

The French frontier extended to the Rhine from the Swiss to the Belgian or Dutch frontier.

The Tyrol, Goritz and Istria, including Trieste, transferred from Austria to Italy.

Vorarlberg possibly transferred from Austria to Switzerland.

East Prussian transferred from Germany to Russia, and Russian, German, Austrian Poland re-established as a self-governing nation under Russian domination.

Poland, Hungary returned by Germany to Denmark.

Hungary probably made a separate, independent kingdom.

Bukovina turned over to Russia.

Rumania made a great part of Transylvania and possibly a part or even all of Bessarabia, as a free gift from Russia. Another big slice of northern Bulgaria also transferred to Rumania.

Serbia and Montenegro united with all of conquered Serbia restored and, in addition, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Dalmatia and part of European Turkey added to the Serbian kingdom.

Another fraction of Turkey handed to Greece, except in the now unlikely event that the Greeks should join the central powers.

Turkey, according to the generally accepted program, will be expelled completely from Europe.

Some diplomats favor a partition of the Sultan's Asiatic possessions also among the allies. Others are disposed to leave him a remnant of this territory, with his capital, presumably, at Brussa.

There is no suggestion of any territorial allowance to Sweden or Norway, despite the fact that the former is exceedingly anxious for Finland.

Her pro-German sympathies undoubtedly will prevent this, but the assumption is that the Finns will be given the measure of self-government which they have claimed all along.

Luxemburg presumably will be permitted to maintain a degree of semi-independence under French protection and domination.

Constantinople's fate is hard to determine. Russia wants and seems pretty likely to get it. This will give the czar his long-desired warm water port.

It is not much of a secret that England is not very happy over this prospect. The British would rather see Constantinople internationalized—a neutrality.

It will be hard, however, to deny to their allies the one thing they desire most, particularly the anxious French. The issue may conceivably become the subject of discord between the two big powers.

This, however, only disposes of Europe.

Russia will get a big chunk of Turkey's Asiatic territory perhaps as far south as Bagdad.

The czar will dominate northern Persia also, if he does not actually annex it.

England will hold a similar position in southern Persia and will get Mesopotamia and the Sultan's possessions south from Bagdad to the Persian gulf.

Greece, if she is good, will get Smyrna and a little territory surrounding the city.

In Africa, the Cameroons will go to France. Belgium will get part of German East Africa.

England will take the rest of the Kaiser's African possessions.

Germany's islands will be kept by the powers which have taken them—Japan, England, Australia and New Zealand, Japan will retain Kiao Chen.

Some allied diplomats hold that war should continue until Germany war should be broken up into their original component states.

Others see no objection to a continued federation, into which they predict Austria will be drawn. What will be the outcome nobody knows.

All this is taking it for granted that the allies will be victorious.

If the central powers should win, it is accepted as a foregone conclusion that Germany will keep Belgium, perhaps take enough of Holland to give the Kaiser control of Scheldt, gather in enough of northern France to secure Calais, regain lost German colonies, annex Courland and Russia, wrest Singapore from England, as the gateway to the Orient, seize Manchuria from the French and establish Poland as a nominally self-governing kingdom under German domination.

It is taken for granted further that Old Serbia and Montenegro will become Austrian, that Bulgaria will get Macedonia and a big mouthful of territory Greece took away from Turkey, that Germany will become Persia and that, through his overlordship of Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, the Kaiser's rule will extend, in fact, as far as the Persian gulf.

From this Austria is expected to get the province of Venice.

Earlier in the war there was much talk of big money indemnities to be paid by the winning side.

There isn't much of this talk now. Each side is convinced that it can't get what the other won't have for a long time after peace is restored.

RUSH WORK ON NORTH WING OF CAPITOL AT MADISON

Madison, Wis., June 16.—Work on the completion of the north wing of the state capitol, the last wing to be placed under construction, is being rushed so that the departments now crisscrossed in office buildings about the house this fall. CERTIFICATES GIVEN TO SCHOOL CHILDREN

Pupils of Public Schools Who Completed Prescribed Reading Course Are Given Diplomas.

Five hundred and fifty school children received diplomas at the public library this morning in recognition of having read during the year at least nine library books from a list prescribed by the state reading circle, which also presents the certificates.

The plan was proposed by State Superintendent Cary, who recognized the fact that there were many helpful books which were not being read by the school children of the state.

Children who have completed the course of reading received their diplomas with a star for this year's work, this morning. At the close of each successive year, if the students fulfill the requirements of the plan, another star will be added to the diploma.

A fact that almost half of the school children who received these diplomas, emphasizes that they do enjoy good, wholesome reading in spite of the many counter-attractions.

Miss Egan thanked the teachers for their help and co-operation in this branch of library work. All of the books were loaned to the children by the public library.

After the presentation of diplomas, under the direction of Miss Sewell, the children sang the Wisconsin song.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL OF CITY ORGANIZED

Meeting Held at Y. M. C. A. Yesterday Afternoon to Perfect Scout Organization.

At a meeting at five o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building, the organization of a Boy Scout council was perfected to take charge of the Boy Scout movement which is rapidly gaining in Janesville. The following officers of the council were named: H. S. Lovejoy, president; J. A. Robinson, first vice-president; Roger Cunningham, second vice-president; H. J. Center, secretary, and Harry Ranous, treasurer.

The council and the following, Rev. F. H. Brigham, B. C. Jackson and J. R. Jensen will compose the executive committee.

Further organization as carried out yesterday included the election of a court of honor as follows: C. W. Cummings, chairman; J. A. Robinson, W. W. Dale, H. C. Grant, F. C. Grant, W. H. Groat was chosen Scout commissioner.

As soon as the new council was organized, M. F. Richardson, a member of the old Scout council which had charge of the Scout movement several years ago, turned over some material, including a large wall tent, seven dog tents and two A tents, flags, a number of Scout manuals and badges, and a small sum of money.

As soon as the signatures of the new council are sent to national headquarters a Scout charter will again be issued to Janesville.

At present there are three troops of Scouts organized with a membership of about sixty boys. Another troop is being formed at the Methodist church and several other churches are contemplating the institution of Scout troops among the boys of their Sunday schools.

Following are the members of the Scout council for city work: J. R. Jensen, H. J. Center, F. H. Brigham, B. C. Jackson, M. F. Richardson, W. H. Groat, C. W. Cummings, C. R. Buell, Harry Ranous, H. S. Lovejoy, J. A. Robinson, M. V. Dale, F. C. Grant, R. E. Ashley, F. C. Grant. Several other men have been mentioned for the council who will be approached later.

DEBATE ON ASPHALT FOR THE PAVEMENTS

Sacro Company Claims a Natural Lake Product and Demands Contract on Low Price.

Members of the board of public works are in the midst of another asphalt war, despite the changes in the specifications this year, through which it was hoped to eliminate trouble that had been experienced in previous contracts for pavings. This afternoon the board met with the representative of the Sacro Asphalt company and went over the letting of the contract for the asphalt macadam pavement on Oakland avenue and Forest Park Boulevard.

It is the same old story of bids. The board of public works aimed to have their specifications fixed so that they could select a natural lake asphalt, over artificial asphalt, if the price for the natural product was within reason.

The bids came in better than expected. The Comora & Brown bid for Bermuda asphalt was $1.05, and as there was but a few cents difference between that and the other brands, it was practically assured that the contract would go to the Janesville firm, with the board specifying Bermuda asphalt.

The provision in the specifications allowed the council to use their judgment in selecting an asphalt which they believed as good as the natural lake product. But it is now pointed out that in case two bids are received for the natural lake product, it becomes a legal obligation for the officials to award the bid to the lowest bidder. It was news to the board of public works when the Sacro agent informed them that his product was a natural lake asphalt, and not an artificial product.

Whether the agent was bluffing or can back up his claim was to be determined this afternoon. The officials of the city are under the impression that Sacro is not considering a natural lake product, but that it contains a com-

TOMORROW LAST DAY OF THE CAS-KA SALE

INSPECTOR ON C. M. & ST. P. RY HELPED FOR RHEUMATISM SEE WHAT HE SAYS OF CAS-KA.

Not a Drop of Whiskey or Alcohol in Cas-Ka And it is Not a Patent Medicine.—All Mail Orders Must be in Before Saturday.

To those people who have not tried CAS-KA and have hesitated for any reason, we will show you, if you will come to the drug store where we have been giving this medicine to the people to test, letters from men who are at the head of the Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota State Boards of Pharmacy, also president and vice-president of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical Association and Michigan president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, men who are now selling CAS-KA for $1 a bottle in many towns and cities in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota which shows the satisfaction CAS-KA gives after our advertising sale. So you see if we can sell you enough CAS-KA to effect a cure, you will recommend it to your friends and they will not let one dollar bottle keep them from trying, for from three to six bottles will effect a cure in many cases. And if you ask anyone that has taken CAS-KA, for ten days they will tell you of this kind of a gripe that is prevalent around here now. Ask anyone that is taking CAS-KA about it.

Get one of the handbills and see the names of Janesville citizens that CAS-KA has helped for catarrh and rheumatism.

Saturday, June 17th is your last day to buy the $1 bottle for 35c or 3 for $1 at J. P. Baker, the druggist, is sole agent for Janesville.

If you are going to give your blood a cleansing where can you find anything better than CAS-KA.

R. Beckle, proprietor on the C. M. & St. Paul Ry., (of cars) lives at 506 West Milwaukee street says, "Yes, indeed I can recommend CAS-KA. My kidneys were so bad I had scalding pains when I passed urine. Not only that, I had rheumatism that has bothered me for the past two years. I have recommended it to every one I know. One of my relatives has bought twelve bottles and they all say it is all right, but it certainly don't taste good."

Aug. Kopech, 209 South Bluff St., with Cannon Cement contractors says, "I have taken two bottles of CAS-KA. Before I had backache and my kidneys hurt me awful. I feel like a new man."
